Appreciation

The Committee and Members of Logan River Family History Inc would like to thank Shannon Fentiman, MP for Waterford, and her staff for their support in printing our journal.

From our President

Hello Members

As we embark on a busy start to the year, I extend my sincere gratitude to those members who have volunteered for various tasks essential for the successful operation of our society.

Local genealogists and historians enjoyed being able to attend the latest Australasian Conference, CONNECTIONS: Past – Present – Future, without having to travel long distances and pay for accommodation. It was encouraging to see that several of our members took advantage of this and were there to benefit from the displays and presentations. I also thank those members who volunteered some of their time to manage our display table and promote our society. These events foster numerous conversations and connections.

I make no excuse for repeatedly returning to the theme of Fund Raising. As a notfor-profit group we are dependent on these activities to pay our recurring costs. We depend on grants for big ticket expenditure, such as was needed for the new computers that we now enjoy for our research. However, ongoing costs such as power, rates, stationery, research subscriptions, etc. must be met by members' annual dues and general fund raising. Currently, our income from member subscriptions leaves us with a shortfall of approximately $4500! We all owe a debt of gratitude to the members who do whatever they can to help bridge this gap. Nevertheless, I do not lose sight of the fact that our mission as a society is to research and preserve our family history.

Consequently, work that is done to enhance our research capabilities; helping each other along the way and introducing new members to the joys of new discoveries in our ancestral lines, is our reason for existence. What do you think that looks like? Perhaps you have your own views on that; it could make an interesting discussion point. Being able to do this in a tidy, well ordered and organised environment makes it all so much more pleasant and productive and many of our members are doing a great job in cleaning and tidying both inside the rooms and outside as well.

Don't forget, we are here for each other, so if you have a question or need help with some research, using a computer, checking out the microfiche, navigating our data sources or library; just ask. Someone will be available to help.

From the Editor

The year is rushing by, and here it is time to present the journal again for your reading pleasure. I hope you will find something to interest you within its pages.

We had a really good response for our last feature display, POSTCARDS. A big thank you to everyone who contributed. So many places, and memories!

I want to thank all members who send in their stories and other items for inclusion in the journal, I really appreciate your support. And as always, I encourage you to write something for your journal.

An interesting ancestor maybe? Or some anecdote you have come across in your research? Do you have a story just waiting to be told?

Happy Reading!

Val Watson

Logan River Family History WRITERS' GROUP

We have had a few interruptions to getting a start with the Writer's Group this year, but we had our first meeting on 7 April. We welcomed Liz, one of our new members, to the group.

We agreed to write an account of the way anyone in our family had been affected by war, whether on active duty or on the home front. We will be sharing those accounts at the May meeting, postponed to the second Monday because of Labour Day.

We support each other in our writing and gain valuable feedback in the discussions we have. Everyone is welcome to join.

Postcards

The concept of the postcard originated at the Austro-German Postal Conference of 1865. Small administrative cards came into circulation in 1869 and these were an overwhelming success with 140,000 copies sold in the first few days and 10 million copies in a single year. Many countries swiftly adopted the idea.

Silk Postcards

The Australian War Memorial has a collection of over 1000 woven, printed and embroidered silk postcards from the First World War, 1914-18. The majority of the collection are embroidered postcards. With a small number of the collection being woven or printed silk postcards.

History / Summary

Woven silk postcards were first produced in Krefeld, Germany in 1898 as a combination of printed postcards and large woven silk pictures, known as Stevengraphs. The early cards were woven on machines. Being machine made, the woven cards always maintained a high standard.

Embroidered silk postcards were first made in 1900 for the Paris Exposition. The popularity of silk postcards peaked during the First World War 1914 - 1918. A thriving cottage industry began around 1915 and the quality of the early silks was quite high. However later, to satisfy demand, the workmanship was often not quite as high.

Postcard companies began to employ women to produce silks on a rough assembly line basis. The cards were generally hand embroidered on strips of silk mesh with as many as 25 on a strip. They were mostly embroidered by French women in their homes and then sent to the factories for cutting and mounting on postcards. Some postcards were made with little envelopes which could contain a smaller card with a sentimental message. Production continued steadily through World War I, declining substantially in 1919, until ending around 1923. An estimated 10,000,000 hand made cards were produced from 1915 to 1919.

Several themes became popular. The main themes were:

Remembrance Liberty Unity Souvenirs of France and Belgium Souvenirs of the war Regimental badges and crests In the 1930s and during the Second World War, machine made cards were produced which were simpler and plainer and with less variations. They never gained the popularity of their WW1 predecessors.

Wardon Estate C. wardon. 1 other. It was take Post Sand when alick was passing on his way ships locker + I san down to ese the woods is pretty healthy, but as for 0. -plain of the cold. 2 me recents from you con Quescante

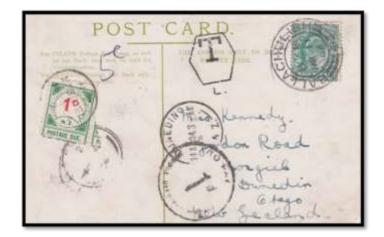

This postcard is from Alex and Duncan to their cousin in New Zealand (Catherine Cameron Kennedy) was taken in Port Said. It seems in those days people got their photos taken and converted into postcards. Alex, my grandfather, was a doctor on his way to India as a ship's doctor. His younger brother, Duncan, was a recently qualified civil engineer and was working for Wardan Co. in Egypt (on barrage dams in the Nile Delta, I believe). He had travelled down from Cairo to meet up with his brother as he passed through Suez. As you can see it was in August 1905. I have no idea why it went via Japan!

POST CARD. in Provide 4 en Harris Nei otago New Zeoland

This postcard was sent to me as a pdf by my New Zealand 'cousin' descended from the oldest Kennedy son, Donald, who emigrated to Dunedin in 1861. My great-grandfather, Angus, was 10 years younger, and the father of the two men in the first postcard and of the sender of the second postcard. The N.Z. cousin found the old postcard in a box of things his mother had collected. Our Greataunt, Cathy, the youngest sister of my grandfather, Alex, as you can see from the message had picked that card because of the Kennedy tartan. Catherine Cameron Kennedy of Acharn, Argyll posted the card on 11th March 1904 from Ballachulish to her cousin, Catherine Cameron Kennedy, in Dunedin.

Unfortunately she put a ha'penny too little postage on it so the N.Z. cousin had to pay before she could collect it!

Our Mother's Memories of her Travel in Postcards

Our mother, Emma Armstrong, decided her one wish was to travel. We, her children, had finished schooling and found our path in life. For many years our mother and our brother, Trevor, and our father's cousin, Roy, had worked the farm after our father had passed away at a young age of 47 years.

She had joined the Country Women's Association as another interest and the company of other women. She enjoyed being involved and being hands on to help with various committees and groups. Our mother decided to go on a trip overseas with the C.W.A. This was the first overseas trip of many that the Qld C.W.A. undertook. Gabrial Horan (known as Gabby) was the president and was very respected by the members. They were fantastic trips.

Mum was very excited; she purchased her first set of lovely red luggage. She had got to know a lot of members, so it was a great opportunity. She did have a camera so took lots of photos.

She also bought lots of postcards from around the world. When she came home, she bought photo albums and filled them up with postcards. She also labelled them to make the albums into a story. I suppose this was the start of scrapbooking as we know it.

I have scanned through her albums starting with one of her tours. They flew from Brisbane to Japan and had a very extensive tour and the album finished in Hong Kong. A memory came back to me that when we went to the Brisbane airport, we would park the car and take her into the airport where we and the children, her grandchildren, would be able to see her board the plane and wave goodbye.

Haven't times changed; now it is drop at the door, say your goodbyes and go home.

The next album which I scanned; they flew out of Brisbane on an Air New Zealand Fivestar DC85. They first went to Singapore for some sightseeing, and then on to Bangkok, Thailand, then to Kuala Lumpur Malaysia, and on to Taipei in Taiwan. She had a wonderful time visiting temples, museums, theatres and landscapes and lots more.

On another trip they flew Air New Zealand DC8 to Auckland, NZ then on to Hawaii; where they had a tour which included a walk on Waikiki Beach. From there they went onto San Francisco, the Grand Canyon in Colorado, Utah, Route 66, The Painted Desert, Arizona, New Mexico, and finally Las Vegas. What a wonderful trip. There were some other trips overseas that Mum did, but I don't seem to have a postcard album for them. The last album that I scanned was an Australian tour. It starts at Sydney Opera House, the Three Sisters in the Blue Mountains, Broken Hill, Mildura, Adelaide, a tour of the Barossa Valley, Port Augusta, Kingoonya, S.A. to Coober Pedy and then onto Ayers Rock (Uluru). What magnificent colours. It is so timeless. The Olga's, Curtain Springs, Alice Springs, Devil's Marbles, Tenant Creek, "Termite Mounds", Mataranka Homestead, Katherine Gorge, Darwin, over the Qld Border to Camooweal, Mt. Isa, Cloncurry, Blackall to home

Surprisingly when you look at postcards you can pick up clues as to the era. Perhaps the towns have grown and the vehicles and freeways date. It is interesting discussing the years and car models, or the difference of the bus models.

Perhaps you have travelled in recent years, and you may have a postcard or photo of the same area from a bygone era. It is so surprising to see how times have changed.

DUNMORE ESTATE AND AUCHENFLOWER

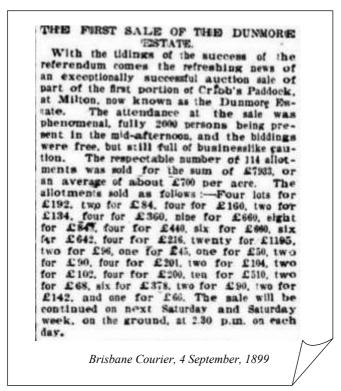

Recently our granddaughter and her partner purchased their new (older) home at Auchenflower, and are interested in learning about its history. It is an old Queensland style home. So far we have found out that is was part of the Dunmore Estate, that first opened up for sale in 1899. The land was owned by Robert Cribb, and called Cribb's Paddock.

So far we have purchased and downloaded a Historic Title Deed from here:

Titles Queensland: https://search.titlesqld.com.au/product-search

And now we are thinking a trip to the Museum of Lands, Mapping and Survey, in Edward Street, Brisbane will give us more information.

In the meantime we continue looking at the history of the Dunmore Estate and Auchenflower in general.

Auchenflower was named by Thomas McIlwraith, a former Premier of Queensland, after his family's estate which was also called Auchenflower. (The name means 'field of flowers' in Gaelic)

This house has had a colourful life, and it still does. Read online at SLQ website:

The house is now the cellar door sales and function centre at Albert River Winery at Tamborine.

This is just general information found so far, a discovery in progress. Much more to learn about their new-old home, the Dunmore Estate and the growth of the area.

No wonder I LOVE history!

Albert Chardon

Albert Chardon was born in Cedar Creek in 1884. His father, Peter Franz Chardon was born in Baden-Wurttemberg, Germany in 1845 and came to Australia on the Susanne Godeffroy in 1865. Albert's mother, Jane Lea, was born in Warwickshire in England and immigrated to Queensland in 1865 with her family. Peter Franz was a hotel licensee who ran the Yatala Hotel, the Chardon's Corner Hotel, then the Queen's Arms in New Farm.

Albert joined the AIF on the 14th September 1914. He was 29 years old, a labourer, and unmarried. He was posted to the 1st Reinforcement of the 9th Battalion, Reg No 1112 with the rank of Private.

Albert embarked in Melbourne on the Themistocles on December 22nd 1914, disembarking in Egypt. The 9th Battalion formed part of the covering force for the Anzac landing on Gallipoli and was the first ashore at 4.30 am on the 25th April 1915. They were heavily involved in establishing and defending the front line of the Anzac beachhead.

Dugouts on the slopes behind Anzac Beach and Gaba Tepe in the distance.

During his short time on Gallipoli, Albert wrote letters to his family giving a very descriptive image of what was happening on Gallipoli, portions of these letters were published in newspapers at the time. In one of these letters, Albert stated that he was in the first boat that landed at Gaba Tepe.

"We have had a rough time since we landed here. The first three days it was like hell let loose but I managed to get through without a scratch."

"All I had to eat from Saturday to Thursday was one tin of bully beef and about six biscuits, so you can guess I was pretty hungry"

"Writing material is very scarce in the trenches, the last-mentioned letter was enclosed in a novel envelope made of khaki material sewn up in the shape of an envelope and fastened with a safety pin."

"I suppose you have read about the fighting parson, Corporal Hunter -the gamest man I have seen. He came up alongside of me, had a shot at a Turk, and was having the second, when he got it through the head, and dropped stone dead on top of me. I got mine shortly afterwards through the heel. I thought my leg and foot were shot off, for it seemed as if someone came along with a sledge hammer and hit me on the ankle. It was only painful for about 10 minutes."

Albert was wounded in action on 28th June 1915, suffering a gunshot wound to the left foot, a head wound and shell shock. After he was evacuated on the HS Sicilian, he was admitted to No 2 Australian General Hospital in Gezira, Cairo then to No 2 General Convalescent Hospital, Mena House, Cairo for further recovery.

Albert was invalided home to Australia on the Euripides on the 29th August 1915, disembarking in Melbourne on the 1st October. After returning to Australia, he was employed as a Recruiting Sergeant in the Recruiting Corps.

Albert died from heart failure after a week's illness on 9th December 1918, he was just 34 years old. Albert was buried on the 10th December in the family plot in Toowong Cemetery, 1-87-12.

Selwyn Hayes - Childhood memories

It's Mum's auburn hair I always remember. I don't like seeing her coffin coming out of the French doors and through the gap in the fence. I was only four then.

Selwyn was thinking back a few years, as he huddled with his dogs Trixie and Parky in cold wet Melbourne.

I stay with my Dad and big brothers sometimes, but I prefer it at Aunty Lena's. I think she is Dad's sister. Chunks of bread with beef dripping or treacle is what she gives me to take to school at St Thomas'.

I wonder what 'little job' my brothers will have for me today. They tell me it's because of the war being over and there's no work for plasterers. They make me go into the real estate agents to get the keys, supposedly for my Mum to view a house to rent. Mmm, lead brings a pretty good price at the scrap merchants. If there is no key, I am small enough to fit through an open window with a leg up.

Sometimes I prefer to be on my own under the bridge. Boiling the billy filled with Brussel sprouts. I get a good handful as I walk past the greengrocer. He sees me but never stops me.

I like animals. I have some ferrets now. I have trained them now to go down rabbit holes. I get ten shillings a day from the rabbit catchers who hire me and my ferrets. Sometimes a rabbit too.

I wish I could see little Molly soon. She was only three when Mum......

A UNIQUE CRICKET MATCH

Riverine Herald, 15 December, 1999

In 'East of the Village,' published in 1987, about the Griffiths family of Womboota, there is an account of a unique 1937 cricket match in which 11 Griffiths brothers formed one team.

On Thursday afternoon the Womboota cricket ground was the meeting place for a representative gathering of the district to witness a cricket match that was unique in the history of the district, namely 11 sons of Mr and Mrs George Griffiths Snr playing a representative district XI. Mr Jim Griffiths was appointed captain of the 'brethren' and W. Ripper acted for the district team.

The Griffiths brothers had first use of the wicket and by solid batting against quite good bowling a very respectable score of 106 was reached when the last wicket fell.

Afternoon tea was taken and during the interval Mr D. Smith congratulated the team on its effort and remarked that it was a memorable occasion for the district.

On resuming, the bowling of the 'brethren' did not prove as steady as their batting and the district team was able to gather the necessary runs for a win.

The ladies made full use of the day with a soft drinks stall and afternoon tea and collected in the vicinity of £6 for the Parents and Citizens' Association.

LOGAN RIVER FAMILY HISTORY www.loganriverfh.org.au

1838 - 1861 James Savage was born at likeston, Derbyshire, England, and was the son of Rev. James Adolphus Savage and Margaret Burrows. James had three older sisters, Margaret Wright Savage born 1832, Sarah Ann born 1834, and Hannan born in 1836. James was educated in Yorkshire after the family moved there in 1844. James worked at a worsted factory, a water powered mill, and Milligan and Forbes Warehouse in Bradford, Yorkshire. The Census of 1861 has James working as a salesman in the stuff trade which is the coarse part of the flax.

1862 James embarked on the Whirlwind with a friend Mr. R.G. Petty at East India Docks London in early June for the journey to Queensland, arriving around September, October. After arrival James spent some time in Maryborough working for a storekeeper named Mr. William Southerden.

1865 - 1887 James opened a store at Brunswick Street Fortitude Valley Brisbane, before moving to Beenleigh. James erected the first house in Beenleigh, and established the Beenleigh Exchange Store in 1868. The store sold all manner of merchandise from grocerles to patent medicines. James was appointed a Justice of the Peace, president of the School of Arts and Agriculture Society, a member of the Divisional Board of Beenleigh, and chairman of the Waterford Board. James married Phoebe Georgiana Davidson on the 5th August 1874. They had five sons and four daughters. Two daughters died while still young.

1875 – 1893 A family of nine children was born to James and Phoebe Savage.

1865 - 1974	3887 - 1965	1893 - 1893

1878 - 1891 James purchased Metropolitan Stores in Beenleigh from H. Pietzcker& Co. The business flourished during the 1880's, but the bubble burst in 1890, and the Nation also faced a financial crisis. 1891 James declared himself insolvent. He blamed the insolvency on floods, droughts, the sugar industry, bad trade and bank foreclosure.

1894 James is noted in the 1894 Post Office Directory Beenleigh, as a general storekeeper, so most likely he had recovered from his financial difficulties.
